If the dispute is with the employer, the Indian Missions, at first, try to resolve the differences between the aggrieved worker and the employer to arrive at a mutually acceptable solution. Wherever necessary, cases are taken up with the concerned authorities of the foreign government to persuade the employers to redress the grievances of Indian workers. Where no alternative employment or any solution is possible despite best efforts of the Mission, all assistance is given to facilitate repatriation of the aggrieved worker.

If the grievance relates to action taken by local authorities, the matter is taken up with the foreign government to resolve the problem within the framework of local laws and taking into account our friendly relations with the country concerned.
